A WHITE BOOK

Regarding Samoan Matters Introduced in the Reichstag.

GERMANY WARNS EVERYBODY NOT TO INTERFERE.

If They Do They Must Take the Consequences—The German Consul Charged by Bismarck to Entreat the Other Foreign Consuls to Combine in Order to Restore Peace.

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—In the reichstag Friday a white book in reference to the Samoan matter was introduced. It comprises forty-four documents, extending from December 8, 1880, to February 5, 1888. Among the documents relating to recent events is the report of the German consul at Apia, dated February 24, 1888. It describes the envoys of Americans and Englishmen to provoke conflicts. A dispatch dated September 5, 1888, deals with the revolt of Mataafa and the support given to him by Capt. Leary, United States navy.

After an account of the attack upon the Germans on December 18 comes a telegram from Count Herbert Bismarck, dated January 1, 1889, to the German ministers at Washington and London directing them to inform Secretary Bayard and Lord Salisbury respecting the attack, and ordering the minister at Washington to complain to the United States government that the American, Kehl, was prominent in the fighting. The ministers were further instructed to declare that Germany adhered to her treaties and would respect the rights founded thereon, and they were to appeal to both governments to co-operate actively with Germany and re-establish tranquility.

On January 6 Count Herbert Bismarck telegraphed to the German consul at Apia that, on account of an agreement with the United States and Great Britain, the annexation of Samoa by Germany was out of the question. A dispatch sent to the German embassies at London and Washington on January 13 states that the object of the military measures against Mataafa and his partisans was to punish the murderers of German soldiers and to secure to German subjects the possession of their property.

A document dated February 2, which was sent by Count Herbert Bismarck to Admiral Von Der Voltz, chief of the German admiralty, says: "Germany is not at war with Samoa, as the term is understood by international law; but she regards Tamaese as the rightful ruler and Mataafa as a rebel against whom and his followers retaliation must be enforced. Any one standing by them is a promoter of the conflict between them and the Germans, and must take the consequences." Count Herbert concludes by declaring that nothing is changed in the legal position of foreign subjects in Samoa.

The white book ends with a long report from the German consul at Apia. The report is dated January 4, and has thirteen appendices dealing with events from December 14, 1888. Thus record that on December 19 Mataafa, in an humble letter, sought to open negotiations with the consul, but would not surrender himself, although pledges were given that his life would be spared. In a subsequent letter Mataafa promises to surrender in the presence of the British and American consuls. The German consul declined to entertain the offer.

On November 24 Prince Bismarck sent a telegram saying that if the vindication of Tamaese was impossible the utmost advances should be made to reconcile him with Mataafa. On December 3 Dr. Knappe reported that the American commander at Apia was stirring up the natives against the Germans. On December 17 Mr. Blacklock complained that drunken sailors from the German man-of-war Olga had committed outrages in Apia, entering houses and wounding men and women. Dr. Knappe reported later that foreigners had spread a rumor that the Germans had been forbidden to interfere.

This rumor had the effect of encouraging the natives, who stoned German sailors and destroyed German properties. In January, 1889, Prince Bismarck notified Dr. Knappe that reprisals were necessary, but only such as were consonant with the treaties of England and America. The chancellor said: "Because Mataafa assaulted Tamaese, we shall interfere only by succoring Tamaese." Prince Bismarck charged Dr. Knappe to entreat the other foreign consuls to combine in order to restore peace.

MINERS QUIT WORK

Because of the Employment of a Man Who Is Objectionable.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Feb. 18.—One of the most extensive coal mines in this vicinity is one operated by the Wilson Coal company, near this place, and all the miners and day hands employed there have gone on a strike on account of a difference with the mine foreman over the employment of a miner that the men do not like. State President Kenna, of the Miner's Progressive union, has been called upon to settle the trouble.

The miners in Pike county, just south of here, are having much trouble now. Those who are employed at Blackburn have been on a strike for a month. They struck on account of a reduction in the price of mining coal, and while they are not at work are fed by their brethren in the miners' organization at other points. There has also been much trouble at the Rogers & Whitman mines, and it is predicted that a general strike in that vicinity will occur.

DRINK DID IT.

A West Virginia Farmer Kills His Wife, Two Daughters and the Hired Girl.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 18.—A special to the Post from Parkersburg, W. Va., says John Elsner, a wealthy farmer, formerly a preacher, residing in Wirt county, went home drunk, Friday night, beat his wife for not having supper ready, then seizing a heavy poker he killed her, also his two daughters, aged twelve and seventeen, and the hired girl. He then set fire to the house and burned it to the ground. He has been arrested and jailed. There is strong talk of lynching him.

A BEAUTY MISSING.

Cecilia Miller, the Pet of the Ranch, Lost in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Cecilia Miller, daughter of S. C. Miller, wealthy ranch owner of Prescott, Ariz., who has been visiting relatives at Norman park, near this city, since last September, and who created such a sensation by her beauty and daring horsemanship, has been mysteriously missing for a week. All sorts of theories are entertained about her absence, from kidnapping to murder. The names of a number of dashing young men of the board of trade are unpleasantly connected with her disappearance. The girl was reared on a ranch and was the pet of her household.

She was peculiarly a child of the west, loved its romance and adventure, and many times ventured far away to watch the glory of the setting sun or to caress her favorite horses. She rode bare-backed while a mere child, and was often known to coax an unbroken horse to her side, and then seizing him by the mane leap upon his back and ride away like a phantom across the wild country. At fifteen it was decided to send her to a convent in Los Angeles. She remained at the convent until last summer, when she returned to her home once more and embraced the wild life of a western ranch. Last September her parents persuaded her to visit relatives here, among them Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Riley, of Norman park. The girl is an accomplished musician, her favorite instrument being the violin.

She went into society a great deal. Her father sent her $50 to $100 a month for pocket money, and she managed to spend it all. Recently she became much attracted by the board of trade. She made the acquaintance of several young men attached to commission houses, and found her way to the gallery which overlooked the howling mob. This delighted her. Young men rivaled each other for her attentions, and she was daily taken to the best luncheons. Last Sunday she attended the Baptist church on the corner of Yale and Seventieth. She walked to within two blocks of home with a lady friend, and declining to take dinner with her, went along apparently for the house of her aunt, Mrs. Riley. She has not been seen since. The girl had but little money with her at the time, but had some valuable jewelry, including a gold watch and chain and a pair of diamond ear-rings.

STRANGE RELIGIOUS COMMUNITY.

Martial Vows Sander, and Unmarried Women Take Vows of Celibacy.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 18.—The members of the Economy or Harmony society Friday commemorated the eighty-fourth anniversary of the organization of the society at its pretty little town down the Fort Wayne railroad. The exercises were held in the chapel and conducted by the venerable Jacob Henriet. The program was the same which has been observed year after year, but it was noticed that the number of observers was smaller. When the Harmony society was formed, forty-four years ago by George Rapp, there were 500 members. The founder believed that Christ would come upon earth a second time.

He said that in order to be prepared to participate in the joys of that coming and to be members of the kingdom which he was to establish his followers should shun marital ties, and those who were not yet married should take upon themselves the vows of celibacy. They also put all their money and property into one common fund, and located on a tract of land in Butler county.

After encountering many difficulties from disruptions, the main body settled in their present location at Economy, where they have lived since 1805. Frugal and industrious, they have accumulated large sums of money, and, by judicious investments and the enhancement in the value of their lands, the community is now said to be worth $80,000.

The original members are gradually passing away, although there have been a number of accessions to the community during the years since it was organized.

Married in Jail.

TUCKSON, Ariz., Feb. 18.—Samuel D. Ford, for whom requisition papers have arrived from Kaukaunee, Ill., who is wanted for forgeries, has just married a woman in the jail here, who has been traveling with him. His forte was religion. He is only nineteen, but is a great leader of prayer meetings and a great flirt among the ladies. The denouement of his forgeries sent agony into the hearts of Kaukaunee's belles, and his marriage here on the eve of his return to answer charges against him, no doubt, will be another severe blow to those who had abiding faith in him.

TROUBLES WITH HALF-BREEDS.

CHURCHES FERRY, Dak., Feb. 18.—Plucky Sheriff Flynn has had another tussle with the half-breeds in attempting to collect taxes. Friday the sheriff seized some horses belonging to a half-breed. He was overtaken before reaching town by a mounted band of fifteen half-breeds armed with guns. They took the horses from the sheriff and rode off, firing their guns and hooting in the Indian fashion. Indignation runs high, and without submission on the part of the half-breeds blood may be shed. There is no danger of the white settlers being molested.

A MINNEAPOLIS TRAGEDY.

ALBERT LEA, Minn., Feb. 18.—A special to the Journal says: News has just been received here of a horrible tragedy in the town of London, Freeborn county, about fourteen miles from this city, in which three persons were killed. The principals were Bohemians. The sheriff has gone to the scene of the crime. Very little is known as yet of the particulars. It is thought that two were at once and the third died shortly after, the victims all being women.

Sensation in Political Circles.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18.—A sensation was created in political circles Friday morning by the announcement that Governor Francis had removed Messrs. James L. Blair and Edward Wilkerson from the offices of police commissioners. Both are Democrats, and Mr. Blair is a son of Frank P. Blair. No cause is given for the governor's action, but it is said the governor desired harmony, and that the only way to secure it was by the use of the guillotine.

UNDER WATER.

Bids for Constructing a Submarine Torpedo Boat Opened.

PROPOSITIONS RECEIVED FROM BUT TWO FIRMS.

That of the Columbian Iron Works, of Baltimore, the One More Likely to Be Accepted—Description of the Vessel. With a Fleet of Which Uncle Sam May Yet Control the Seas.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Bids were opened at the office of the secretary of the navy Friday for a submarine torpedo boat. Secretary Whitney has given considerable attention to the subject of submarine boats for harbor defense, and the design in advertising for bids was to endeavor to secure some design of practical utility that would be guaranteed by a responsible bidder to accomplish certain results. With this end in view the specifications issued by the department did not specify the exact results to be attained, but outlined in general way what would be desirable, and left considerable latitude for the ingenuity of bidders, who were invited to make their own guarantees.

The only bids submitted came from the Columbian iron works of Baltimore, and Mr. George C. Baker, of Des Moines, Iowa.

The Columbian iron works submitted three alternative propositions for a boat of ninety tons displacement. The first provides for a speed of twelve knots on the surface and nine knots submerged, with nineteen hours' power endurance on the surface and one hour submerged, to cost $150,000. The second provides for ten knots on the surface and eight knots submerged, with fifteen hours' surface endurance, at $115,000; and the third provides for nine knots on the surface and seven knots submerged, at $100,000.

The bid of Mr. Baker was $75,000 for a boat of forty tons, and he only guaranteed its maneuvering qualities.

The bid of the Columbian iron works is one more likely to be accepted. The firm proposes to build what is known as the "Holland boat." It is to have sufficient buoyancy to keep it afloat at the surface of the water. The motive power will be steam generated by burning petroleum while the boat is at the surface and bottled in her boilers while she is running submerged. She is to be submerged automatically by means of rudders at either side that can be so arranged as to cause her to dive below the water and remain at any required depth as long as she has headway.

Her armament will consist of a Zalinski gun, for use when she is at the surface, and as she can lay with the sea washing over her and only the tip of the gun above the surface, it is said she will be invisible at a distance of half a mile, and could, with her smokeless pneumatic gun, drop dynamite shells on the deck of an enemy's vessel while unseen herself. When for closer work she would steam to within a short distance of the enemy, and when so near that an ordinary torpedo boat would get riddled by the fire of rapid firing guns, she can dive below the surface and continue the attack with a submarine torpedo gun and with automatic mobile spar torpedoes.

MASKED BIJGLARS

Brutally Maltreat an Aged Couple and Steal One Dollar as Booty.

READING, Pa., Feb. 18.—Near Bowen station, early Friday morning, an aged farmer, his wife and hired man were terribly maltreated by masked burglars. John Haas is seventy-three years old, his wife seventy-seven. About 1 o'clock Mr. Haas' house was invaded by four masked burglars who held revolvers to the heads of himself and wife and demanded all the money in the house. One of the men examined the garment and found a dollar. With brutal oaths the robbers threatened to burn the building and its occupants.

Mrs. Haas, in her fright, jumped out of bed when she was seized, kicked, choked and beaten. The robbers tore up the sheets, bound the aged couple and gagged them. Leaving one man in charge and other having the hired man in custody, two proceeded to ransack the dwelling. They ripped up feather beds, scattered the contents upon the floor, tore up the carpets and fire-places, upset furniture, and even removed pictures from the walls in their fruitless search for hidden wealth. A reward has been offered.

KENTUCKY MOUNTAINEERS.

Opposing Factions Meet and Have a Pitched Battle.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 18.—Another feud has broken out in Menifee county. Thursday morning, near Chambers station, on the Mount Sterling Coal road, about fifteen miles east of Mount Sterling, a pitched battle took place between two parties of mountaineers, one led by R. L. Draughn, and the other by Hack Hellon. About seventy-five or one hundred shots were exchanged, but each party was so well entrenched that no one was wounded so far as heard from.

It is believed here that this is a revival of the old Barnett reign of terror which prevailed in Breathitt county some six years ago in which Hack Hellon's cousin Vaughan Hellon was murdered. It appears that there are about six or eight men engaged on each side in Thursday's fusillade. Of course, there will be more trouble, as these men are all terrors when once aroused.

In a suit against the city of Franklin, Ind., Seiber Hartner, was awarded $1,200 for sustaining a compound fracture of an arm in falling in an open cellarway. The suit was for $10,000.

Mrs. Ethel K. Cecil has instituted suit against the city of Evansville, Ind., for $3,000 damages sustained by falling into a hole on a street crossing, which was negligently allowed to remain out of repair.

BIG TRAFFIC FIGHT.

Rail Vs. River Between St. Paul and the Gulf of Mexico.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, Feb. 18.—The announcement that a new line of steamers will be established on the Mississippi this year by Minneapolis and St. Louis capital carried more of meaning than was at once apparent. It seems the reopening of the old fight between the railroads and Chicago on one hand, as against every Mississippi river city. This struggle was made once, years ago, and the railroads won it. The result was to injure beyond calculation Burlington, Davenport, Dubuque and every city on the river.

Possessed then, as it appeared, of the united advantages of both rail and river transportation, these cities seemed bound by their location to grow rapidly, but through the railroads desire to secure the long haul on every community, even though its natural and cheapest channel was south by the river or the sea, and their consequent successful endeavor to kill the river trade, these cities have practically been deprived of both.

But now comes the new line of steamers and a determination by the twin cities to throw off Chicago's yoke by shipping their flour direct to New Orleans by river. This one step taken and others are bound to follow, consequently river cities are justified in asserting that their turn will come soon—come with the re-establishment of freighting by river.

TAE WHITE CAPS TRIAL.

Judge Miers Creates a Scene By Charges of Tampering With a Jury.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Feb. 18.—The argument in the White Cap case occupied the entire day. Judge Pearson charged the jury Friday night.

A sensation was created during the argument of Judge Miers, when he openly charged that one of the jurors had been tampered with, having been seen with one of the defendants Thursday night. He used no name, but when court met and the jury entered the box, Juror Perry O. Butcher arose to his feet and said: "I want to explain." Judge Pearson interrupted him by saying: "This is not the proper time to explain. Your duty now is to dispose of this case, and the matter will be investigated hereafter."

Eastern Kentucky's Coal Fields.

But few people right here in the State, perhaps, have any idea of the wonderful mineral wealth of Eastern Kentucky. Much has been said and much written of late years, it is true, about the extensive forests, the rich deposits of iron ore and the inexhaustible fields of coal in the mountain counties, but the subject has not received the consideration it deserves. If all reports are true—and there is no reason to doubt their truth—there is no section that offers a finer field for investment than portions of Eastern and South-eastern Kentucky. The editor of the Hustler, recently started at Jackson, Breathitt County, has been exploring the mountains and valleys of that section of late. In describing what he saw he says:

"Enough banks have already been opened up to prove that the whole country around is underlaid with the very choicest quality of coal. One mountain alone which we saw on our trip contains over fifty feet of coal, beginning at the bottom strata and measuring upward. The topmost bank is about eleven and one-half feet in thickness, and strange to relate it is opened up right on a school house play ground, where jolly pedagogues and great bands of children have been wont to come for years, and build their fires from wood from the adjacent forest, doubtless never thinking once that they had one of the largest as well as the best coal stratas in America only a few feet from the door."

"Then just across the country from this mountain is another, in which have already been discovered about thirty feet of coal in three banks, one above the other, and all the strata have not been opened up yet."

"The man who owns this place has his house situated, as it were, between heaven and earth. It is way up the side of one of the steepest of mountains, and there is no other means of access than by a small path which winds 'round and 'round among the bushes, and one has to almost pull his way up by catching on to the shrubbery." * * * The man had lived and brought up his family there, but was totally unaware of his vast wealth until a recent land slide right in front of his door revealed a fourteen-foot coal bank, the thickest that has ever been found in Breathitt. This, of course set him to thinking and looking, and today he rejoices in the fact that he owns one of the very best boundaries in the mountains of Kentucky. * * *

"We mention these two mountains in particular, but they do not contain all the mineral wealth of the region by any means. Neither are we able to say that they contain more coal than others. This has never been demonstrated. Every evidence goes to show that the entire country is underlaid with vast stratas which have never yet been disclosed."

Further along the editor tells of a field of cannel coal which was first discovered by a little boy, who had been promised a dollar or two for every bank he found. The Hustler says: "It has been known that cannel coal existed in this county for many years, but no one had the remotest idea of its extensiveness, until a year or so ago. * * * The region is probably not more than twenty miles square, but it is safe to estimate that there is a sufficient quantity in this boundary to build the fires in the State of Kentucky for five hundred years to come. No one can possibly have a plausible idea of its richness until they have seen for themselves and made estimates of the amount to be mined. It is certainly by far the most valuable coal field ever yet discovered. The block that captured the gold medal at the centennial exposition was Breathitt County coal, and came out of this same territory. Moreover, it was taken not by the influence of powerful capitalists, but by its own individual merits."

But all these vast fields of coal are valueless to their owners, valueless to the state, and will remain so until they are placed within reach of the markets of the world. Their extent and wealth cannot be estimated now; it can not be estimated until they are developed. What has been needed in that section for years and what is wanting at this time is the railroad. What a wonderful change will follow the advent of the iron horse! And he is making his way there now. Capitalists have learned of all this undeveloped wealth, and they are reaching out for it. Three railways now in process of construction are aiming for these coal fields—the Louisville Southern, the Kentucky Midland and the Kentucky Union. The last named will probably be the first to get there.

But this vast wealth of coal and iron and timber is not confined to Breathitt County. It is to be found in all that section, and two more railroads are projected to place it in the markets of the world—one to extend from the Virginia line to Tennessee, the other the Charleston, Cincinnati and Chicago. The contract for the construction of the latter it is claimed has already been let. Its route crosses Eastern Kentucky, striking the Ohio at Ashland.

The time is not far distant when great changes will have taken place and when that section of Kentucky will be the scene of wonderful industrial activity.

RICHARD KIDD, of Texas, has been voting the Democratic ticket ever since the organization of the party. At least that's our information. He is 115 years of age and claims to be the oldest voter in the country. The Covington Commonwealth says "he has set a worthy and patriotic example in his exercise of the election franchise, which younger kids would do well to follow." Democrats, let us all be "kids," of the Richard Kidd class.

The discourse was a forcible and very instructive one, the reverend speaker setting before his hearers in strong language the fact that they were not to be idlers here on earth, but were expected to make good use of the energies with which they were endowed.

KENTUCKY INDUSTRIES.

Interesting Notes Concerning New Enterprises Throughtout the State.

A company has been organized at Elizabethtown which has secured the exclusive privilege of supplying the town with natural gas, and boring will at once commence.

Seventy-eight hundred acres of mineral land have been sold in Breathitt County, for $78,000 cash. Three years ago the same land could have been purchased for $7,800.

Hopkinsville is to build a handsome Tobacco Exchange building and Jno. C. Latham, the New York banker, is already erecting a mammoth tobacco warehouse in that place.

Among the enterprises which are taking shape, and will be established at an early date in Owensboro, are a church organ factory, and a building and loan association, the latter on a big scale.

Contracts for four iron furnaces, with a daily capacity of 125 tons each, have been signed at Cumberland Gap in Bell County, where the great American Association of English capitalists is operating.

A big saw mill and a brick manufactory will soon be established at Beattyville, where the Three Forks Investment Company is also about to construct a fine hotel. This part of Eastern Kentucky is booming.

The Falls City Malleable Iron and Steel Works at Louisville have been increased 50 per cent in capacity before turning out any work. The prospect of a great edged-tool factory at that place is promising.

One of the oldest practical steel men in the country says steel can be made and sold cheaper at Louisville than at any other point in the United States. All the same not a ton of merchant steel is made there.

A paper has been established at Irvine in Estill County "The Eagle," and it is booming the rich mineral products of that county. The Louisville Southern Railroad will soon open the section to development and immigration.

Negotiations are pending for the location of a cotton mill and a woolen mill at Paducah. The iron furnace which is nearly completed is announced to go into blast April 1, weather permitting the work to proceed, and it is stated that the whole annual product has been sold in advance to founders which agree to accept and pay for the iron daily or weekly if preferred. Work upon a large saw mill and furniture factory has commenced at same place.

But this vast wealth of coal and iron and timber is not confined to Breathitt County. It is to be found in all that section, and two more railroads are projected to place it in the markets of the world—one to extend from the Virginia

This was repeated three times. The fourth time it swam to the middle of the creek, put its head under the water and sank from sight. In a short time it rose to the top of the water, being dead, and washed down the stream. The action of the cat in swimming to the middle of the stream shows that it was meditating suicide."

AFGHANISTAN.

The Ameer Likely to Receive a Lesson From Russia

IN CONSEQUENCE OF HIS AGGRESSIVE ACTIONS.

Russia's Troops Need Exercise—The English Foreign Office Somewhat Disturbed by the Information—Two Cardinals Receive Their Huts In Rome—Other Foreign News

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The English foreign office is somewhat disturbed by the information that Russia finds it necessary to teach the Afghans a lesson in consequence of the aggressiveness of the ameer. It is not likely that the Afghans' depredations have been very extensive, but probably the Russian troops in that part of the world are becoming a trifl off form in consequence of their inactivity for the last few months, and it is deemed best to give them a little exercise. The ameer's troops are quite convenient, and it is well on principle to keep a respect for the czar's forces impressed upon their minds.

This is doubtless the true explanation of the Russian movement toward the frontier which has naturally worried British statesmen.

An American engineer just returned from that country of great projects pronounces the scheme of joining the Black and Azov seas by a waterway capable of transferring from one to the other the largest vessels afloat as one of great commercial as well as of military importance. It will open up a fertile region to trade and will pay for its cost indirectly in few years, besides furnishing a harbor for the construction of dock yards and storage for naval material inaccessible to foreign attacks.

Gen. Ignatieff naturally looks at the plan in respect to its latter capabilities, judging it to furnish an impregnable locality for the building up of a navy which will give Russia at the proper time command of the Black sea and the straits of the Mediterranean.

In the course of a conversation which he was willing should be reported, he said: "It is necessary for the health of Europe as for the progress of civilization that Russia should obtain possession of Constantinople, and for the reason the United States should require Cuba."

"Both places," he continued, "are Lazar houses, from which every few years issue epidemics, destroying lives of far more value to humanity than the entire population of those fever infected places. For centuries the Golden Horn has sent out the black death, the plague, the sweating sickness and the cholera to destroy millions of lives, depopulate cities and bring financial ruin to prosperous centers. No alteration of this state of things is possible while the Turk with his hereditary habits rules over this hotbed of disease. There is a hope, judging from circumstances that have lately come to light, that the jealousy of the powers will soon be mitigated, and that the will soon cease to become the tools of English diplomacy."

TRAMPED TO DEATH.

Awful Fate of Two Ohio Boys On a Wyoming Cattle Ranch.

CHIENNEE, Wyo., T., Feb. 18.—Two young men learning to be cowboys were trampled to death near the Sweetwater Thursday and a third only escaped the cattle's hoofs by his speed as a runner. All three invited their peril by venturing on the range on foot. George and Albert Avery, brothers, the sons of a wealthy farmer near Youngstown, O., came out here in December. They had money and expected to buy a range in the spring. This winter they were learning the business at the ranch of a friend, another Ohio man, whose brief experience as a stockman dates back only to last August.

Daniel Stockwell, the owner of the ranches, and the two Averys took advantage of the light snow Thursday to go jack rabbit hunting, not knowing the effect that the sight of a man on foot has on cattle. They strode along in their heavy boots until they were four or five miles from the ranch. They had shot considerable game, and were within a half-mile of Independence Rock, a celebrated landmark of overland travel in 1849, when they noticed a bunch of some three hundred or four hundred cattle running toward them. Their heads and tails were high in the air and they acted as if stampeded.

It flashed through Stockwell that the herd was making for them, and he gave the warning and started to run, throwing away his gun and game. The two boys ran a little ways and then turned and fired at the oncoming herd. The steers in the lead swerved to one side, but those behind rushed on and the young men went down beneath the pounding hoofs and were trampled to death in an unrecognized mass. Stockwell never stopped running till he had reached Independence and climbed to a place of safety. The herd dashed by him and were soon out of sight. Stockwell is reported to be almost wild with grief.

A NORTH CAROLINA BUTCHERY.

Four People Killed, the House Fired and the Bodies Burned to a Crisp.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The World's Charlotte, N. C. special says that news has been received of one of the most horrible crimes that was ever committed in North Carolina. Ella Chavers, colored, reports that on last Wednesday night masked men entered the home of Jacob Faustett, who lived in a cottage near Mount Olive, Bertie county, and with an ax killed Mrs. Faustett and her child, while they lay abed. The murderers then went to a cabin in which three negro women servants were sleeping, and murdered two of them in a like manner.

The third, Ella Chavers, was sleeping in an adjoining room, and being awakened, escaped. The men started in pursuit of her, but she evaded them. She was unable to tell who the men were. She watched from a distance and saw them kindle a fire. Thursday the bones of the four murdered persons were picked from among the ashes.

They were Mrs. Anna Faustett and her child, Ada Wren, and Anna Gordon, the colored women. The most intense excitement prevails, but no arrests have been made. The Chavers woman said that Faustett has had trouble with trouble with neighbors, who were quarreling all that morning, and had threatened his life. Faustett was not at home on the night of the murder.

Embryo Indian Fighters.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 18.—John Thompson and Thomas Cook, two young boys, surfeited their tastes for blood and thunder tales and were filled with the idea that they could cast Jack Shephard in the shade. They stole a gun, powder and dirk, and started out by the dark of the moon bent on adventures. But the first they struck was a cruel policeman, who ended their dream in a summary manner. Judge Bode sent both to the house of refuge.

Fort Wayne's $100,000 Blaze.

PORT WAYNE, Ind., Feb. 18.—At 1 o'clock a. m. fire started in the large four-story brick block on Calhoun street, owned and occupied by Louis Fox & Company, as a wholesale cracker factory. It is a complete loss. The fire originated in the engine room. The adjoining block, also a four-story brick, owned by William Fleming, is also a total loss. This block is occupied by Skelton, Watt & Wilt, with a wholesale grocery, and the stock is a total loss. Not a thing was saved in either building. The loss will exceed $100,000. The next block north owned by Fleming & Rich, and occupied by Julius Nathan as a wholesale liquor store, was badly damaged.
